The Retailers Will Petition the Court for a Revision

OF A LIST OF THE REFUSED.

Such Action is Urged on the Ground of Public Necessity,

TO CORRECT THE EXISTING ABUSES.

From 15,000 to 20,000 Signers Have Been Secured in the County.

AN APPEAL IS NOT CONTEMPLATED

The roost reputable retail liquor men in Allegheny county who were refused licenses are about ready to present a petition to the Court, asking for a review of the list. It was the intention to submit the papers this morning, but, owing to the illness of Judge White, they will hardly be presented before Monday. Attorneys John Robb, Charles Montooth and C. F. McKenna held a short consultation yesterday to determine the time when to hand in the petition. Mr. Josiah Cohen, who is also employed, is out

The idea is not to appeal to the Suprem-Court to reverse the lower Court as has been erroneously published, but the petitioners merely ask for a revision of the refused license list for certain good reasons.

GOOD MEN IN CHARGE. Some of the best retail men in the country have had the matter in charge, and attended to the circulation of the petition. Among the local retailers on the committee are Nick Young and Tom Delaney. From 15,-000 to 20,000 signers have been secured, and Nick Young said if the members had worked harder more names could have been added, but the liquor men thought it was not neces-

Mr. Young,in speaking of what they intended te do last night, said: "It is not true that a syndicate of lawyers sent us a circular letter agreeing to take up our cases for a good re-tainer, neither is the petition the work of the Retailers' Association. A few of us conceived the idea, and we have made an effort to sift out all the saloon keepers who keep 'speak easies.'

Only the best men will be allowed to sign,
"Two months have now elapsed since the licenses were granted, and we think we can show the Court that public necessity demands more saloons. A number of evils and abuses of the license system have sprung up. Liquor is sold illicitly in numerous places, and the county and city derive no revenues. These men are irresponsible, and openly violate the

AN ADVANTAGE IT MIGHT BE. "If the licenses were increased this evil could be remedied. I have also seen liquor peddled from house to house, and offered for sale. We believe if the Judges were acquainted with these facts they might be led to revise the list. "Besides it must be patent to them, as it is to the people, that a monopoly of the business in the country has been created."

From 200 to 250 saloon keepers are interested in the movement. If the Judges should consent to review the list of refused each man would appear personally before the Court and present his case. The liquor men know that present his case. The liquor men know that the decision of the Supreme Court in the Radebaugh case is against them, and any attempt to appeal would be fruitless. As petitioners they haven't any legal rights, and if the Judges refuse to listen to the petition that settles it. It will be presented on public grounds and for the good of the community.

CAUSE OF THEIR REVIVAL. From another source it was learned that the ent decision of the Supreme Court in the wholesale cases has agitated the retailers. The stances are only retailers, and they think it is stances are only retailers, and they think it is not just that a man should be allowed to run a jug line and class it as wholesale trade.

At the conference of attorneys yesterday none of the liquor men were present. One of the attorneys said after the meeting that immediately after the decision of the License Court had been rendered, the retailers organized for the purpose of securing either legislative or judicial aid. They have concluded to appeal fairly and squarely to the Court to see what can be done in the way of granting more licenses.

REASONS FOR DELAY. While talking to another attorney of the liquor dealers, the gentleman remarked to a DISPATCH reporter: "Of course I am not certain when the petition will be presented to the lower courts. The first thing which will prelower courts. The first thing which will prevent it is the absence of Mr. Josiah Cohen, the senior counsel, and again we are waiting for Judge White to reappear in court, because it would only be common courtesy due to him to have him consider the matter."

"But is it possible for Judge White to even consider the petition of the retail liquor dealers at this time?"

"Oh, yes! The court is what we call a continuous court, and the Judges can grant and refuse licenses whenever they think fit."

"But would it be consistent with Judge White's past action as regards the granting of licenses to consider the petitions of the retail liquor dealers."

WHY IT IS DIFFERENT. "I do not see anything wrong in the matter. The Judge believed that the Brooks law intended a curtailing of the number of saloons, and he believed that the law demanded certain qualifications on the part of the applicant. But quaintestions on the part of the applicant. But inasmuch as the Supreme Court has rused otherwise, the Judge may only be too willing to modify his decisions in accordance. But mind you, the number selected by the retulers will be properly examined by counsel. We will not allow a name of any man to go on the list who is not a law-abiding citizen and when we do not

JUST LIKE PLIM-PLAM.

That is the Nature of the Allegation Against John Lahler.

An interesting hearing was held last night before Alderman Porter, in which John Labler was defendant on a charge of obtaining money under false pretense. An Italian named Car rio preferred the charge. From the story told by the prasecutor, Lahler is engaged as foreman by a contractor, and had charge of a number of Italian laborers who were laying a sewer in East Liberty.

It is said that Lahler has been making considerable money by receiving $2 or $3 each from the laborers as a bonus for employing them. In a few days he discharges them, and, it is alleged, works the same scheme on new men. Carrio alleges that he was one of the victims. He paid $2 for being employed, and in a few days was discharged. Lahler furnished $1,500 bail for trial at court. before Alderman Porter, in which John Labler

They were expected to arrive here, and Rev. Fathers Waters. Kenna, Murphy and Griffin, as well as Mrs. Dougherty and her daughter Miss Rebecca were anxiously looking for them at the Union depot. There was not much time to talk to them, because immediately after their arrival the two returning pilgrims were taken to a carriage and driven to St. Andrew's R. C. During the few moments a DISPATCH reporter had to talk to Father Carroll, he said: "We had a very delightful time during the whole trip, and the benefits we all derived from the journey are truly immeasurable. Upon our arrival in the Holy Land we followed the same route which our Savior went over on his journey from Nazarcth to Jerusalem. "No! we did not get much into contact with them. The people throughout the country are very harmless and correspondingly poor. They let us proceed on our way very peacefully. In the larger cities we always succeeded in finding representatives of our own belief, and we enjoyed their protection and hospitality most of the time."

About 10 o'clock yesterday forencon Eva Reynolds stabbed her lover, George Jodes, at No. 252 Second avenue, Yellow Row, because he objected to her receiving the attentions of another man, John Carron. According to the story told at the Central station, Jones and Eva, both colored, have been living together, sans marriage ceremony, and some time ago another colored man named John Catron was arrested and sent to Cleveland on a charge of highway robbery. He was acquitted and came back to this city. During his absence, it is al-leged, Jones discovered some letters written by Carron to Eva, from which he gleaned the Carron to Eva, from which he gleaned the intelligence that she was not altogether single-hearted, and the discovery led to a quarrel, in which Eva stabbed Mr. Jones in the breast. Last evening Officers Fitzgerald and Madison arrested Eva and Carron at her mother's house on Center avenue, Minersville, and they were locked up to await the result of Jones' injuries. AUTOMATIC ARRESTS

Captain Wishart Will Swoop Down Upon the Slot Machines.

AN INTERVIEW WITH THE AGENT.

Back Vigorously. DRUGGIST KAERCHER MEANS BUSINESS

It was not for a moment to be presumed that the Law and Order League would tamely submit to such an invasion of its 1794-given authority as to take a slap in the face from the rampant, pernicious drop-anickel-in-the-slot-and - get-a-drink-of - mineral-water-Sunday-or-no-Sunday - blue-lawor-no-blue-law machine.
As Don Quixote—that valiant Sir Galahad of history-mounted anon his fiery Rosinante and sallied forth, armed cap-a-pie, to fight a windmill, so will Captain Wishart-the valiant trencherman of Mt. Washingtonmount his hobby bright and early to-morrow morning and do deadly battle with a watermill. In plain words, the doughty conservator of the morals of the community-Captain Wishart-will forthwith arrest the drop-a-nickel-in-the-slot machines if they, the aforesaid drop-a-nickel etc. machines venture RESISTANCE IS NOT APPREHENDED on the part of the machines; but if they show fight, Captain Wishart is well prepared to shed tubs or buckets of b-lud-or water. The wretched machines will be lugged off to the calaboose without any explanation being ac-corded to them. They will be taken e flagrante delicto, as the Vulgate hath it, and by means of superior force, and neither the machines nor their contents will be given a chance to run away, for the sweeping swoop of the Law and Order myrmidons will be like that of the As-syrian who came down like the wolf on the fold, and his cohorts were gleaming with pur-nia and gold ple and gold.

The temptation to woo the poetic muse is irresistible. The machines will probably sing hopelessly—after Gilbert:

Farewell my own-er! Quench of my thirst, farewell! For crime unknown-er I go to my dungeon cell.

THE AGENT GIVEN WARNING. Mr. H. M. Black, Pittsburg agent of the slot achines which dispense Waukesha water to the thirsty multitude, assured a DISPATOH reporter last evening that he had received reporter last evening that he had received semi-official intimations from the Law and Order League that all machines found selling water to-morrow would be forthwith arrested. "It seems absurd, does it not?" queried Mr. Black. The mere idea of arresting a machine. The method that Captain Wishart intends to pursue, I have been informed, is to confiscate, to take up or arrest, whichever he chooses to call it, all the machines of which I am the agent. Then whoever applies to the authorities for the machines will be presumed to be the owner and will be promptly arrested for violating the Sunday-selling law. I would consider the threat as a ridiculous joke if it had not come to me in a perfectly serious manner, I may say as a warning to me to take the machines in."

"It they arrest your machines, Mr. Black, what will you do about it?" asked the reporter.

COUNTER ABRESTS TO FOLLOW. "I shall make informations against the Law and Order League agents for larceny and press the cases for all there is in it. There are other charges, such as conspiracy, which might lie. There are just as good lawyers here as those in Lizzie Preiston, the 6-year-old daughter of Joseph and Josephine Preister, was killed in the P. & L. E. R. R. yard at 2:30 yesterday afternoon. The child was playing under some cars in the yard, when the train started and she was crushed to death. The body was taken to Ward's undertaking rooms, and an inquest will some properties. There are just as good lawyers here as those in the employ of the L. and O. people. The company owning these machines is headed by Messrs. Anderson and -Douglas, the Minneapolis cable magnates, and controls a capital of 51,00,000, and is just itching for a test case, even under the blue law of 1794. These machines have come to stay, and, although there are only ten of them here just now, we intend to put in as many of them as are needed as some or an experiment. soon as they can be manufactured be held this morning. "Our mineral water comes direct from Waukesba, Wis, and is brought here in 6,000-gailon tank cars. At our wareroom, corner of Eleventh street and Penn avenue, we have constructed a tank holding 8,000 gallons, and after all these arrangements have been made we are not going to back water, but will keep right on furnishing it. There is fun ahead, and don't forget it."

formishing it. There is fun ahead, and don't forget it."

"We have had two machines broken at the Federal street depot, and we shall offer rewards for the arrest and conviction of persons who attempt to steal any quantity of water out of the machines. The small boys are the worst offenders. They get strips of tin and monkey with the mechanism, which is too delicate, of necessity, to stand any fooling with, and we are zoing to put an end to any more obtaining of mineral water upon false pretenses."

DRUGGIST KAERCHER SHOWS FIGHT. Yes, I shall be open to-morrow, as usual, and tes, I shall be open to-morrow, as usual, and until further notice, and I want the people to know it. "I had a very breezy interview with a certain city magistrate last Monday, in which I told him that I intended to keep on selling soda and mineral water. I told him that I would cheerfully appear every Monday and plead guilty to the crime of quenching thirst on Sunday, and I asked him to allow me to plead guilty, and so save witness fees. But that did not seem to fail in with his ideas. He threw out a him that those who bought of me would be prosecuted under the 1794 iaw, and I dared him to try it on. I cannot say, of course, whether they will try arresting customers or not, but I regard the intimation as a binf.

"I would like to know one thing, by the way. My case last Monday was numbered 1,777, which if it means anything means that I have had 1,776 predecessors in the Law and Order League inil.

last evening for fighting on Second avenue, near Brady street. He was locked up in the Fourteenth ward station.

Of fine, costs and one witness' fee is $31 50. Multiply that amount by the number of cases and you have a grand total of $32.510 THE MINIMUM AMOUNT small percentage of cases get off with the minimum fine. But even if that had been always imposed, I should like to know what has become of this large sum of money. Has the State got it, and if so, why is nothing said about it. There is considerable curiosity upon this point. this point.

Everything will be fixed to-night for to-morrow's sales. I shall run the fountain myself. I have an improved apparatus which gives me three fountains on each of two switches, and all at my command without losing time to connect each fountain as it becomes exhausted. All the syrup fountains will be filled carefully, and a quantity of surplus syrup will be close at hand. By being the only seller I hope to receive only the minimum fine, as I shall plead guilty when arraigned. It is a big job I have cut out, for I must sell between 1,200 and 1,300 glasses in order to clear myself on the minimum fine. But I will fight it out, if my friends hold up my hands."

atherings of the Green Bottle Blowers of the United States and Canada ever held are now in simultaneous session at Atlantic City. The question of consolidating the two bodies is a knotty one. Not only official precedence, but a vital question of wages is involved. The whole matter in a nutshell, with its possible effect on Pittsburg, is accurately reported in a special telegram from Atlantic City to THE DIS-PATCH last night, which is appended: To-day the green bottle blowers of the United States and Canada, consisting of District Assemblies 149, east of the Allegheny Mountains, and 143, west of the mountains took up the matter of consolidation of both assemblies. For years they have been at daggers points, which has proven a great detriment to both assemblies throughout the United States. The assemblies are meeting in different halls, but have found several mediators, by means of which the present step or attempt to go forward has been brought about. Local pride, as well as a difference of opinion as to prices, has always kept these two organ

Mr. Coffey, President and leader of eastern district, favors consolidation, because he is confident of becoming its President more than anything else. Arrington, the western leader. and President of 14% is neutral on the matter, favoring a higher price, but having no desire of losing his present office.

Hayes and the other Pittsburg delegates favor consolidation, but will fight to the end for Arrington's election, as it is of vitablimportance to the Pittsburg blowers.

A delegation of filmworkers arrived from Pittsburg to-day to take a hand in the fight, as they are its real projectors, since the price fixed for Western Pennsylvania green bottle blowers directly affects their wages.

The delegates are unusually reticent on account of the situation, which is indeed critical at this time. Two private telegrams were sent to Master Workman Powderly to-day asking his influence in the matter of bringing the two fighting organizations together.

The price list will be taken up as accounts the and President of 143, is neutral on the matter, his influence in the matter of bringing the two fighting organizations together.

The price list will be taken up as soon as the present question is disposed of, which will be probably, to-morrow evening. The convention will last a week longer. The Campbell matter has been dropped by both assemblies. They have left it to Mr. Walter Lyon, United States District Attorney, to settle.

WHY HE WANTS IT.

THE SIGNIFICANCE OF IT. District Master Workman Coffey, when asked as to how the delegates received the suggestion of consolidation, and what the leaders thought of it, said: The glassblower consider it the most important subject they were ever called upon to consider, and want to give it the deliberation which it deserves. The opinion of the leaders is that it would strengthen the organization wonderfully. It would be much more economical. Instead of two would be much more economical. Instead of two sets of officers only one would be needed. A central bureau of information could be established, and men could be transferred from one place to another without interruption. A more general uniformity of prices could also be secured, and the advantages of manufacturers as well as blowers equalized. In case a consolidation is effected such a bureau would be localised either in Philadelphia or Pittsburg, not fartner west than the latter city. Philadelphia or Pittsburg, not farther west than the latter city.

Through the strength that is afforded by our connection with the Kuights of Labor we have begun and propose to wage a successful conflict against every non-union giass corporation in the eastern section of our grand country, until the atmosphere of our trade is thoroughly purged of these iniquitous pest houses. As a glassblower and a Kuight of Labor, I have no hesitation in asserting the belief that the hostile opposition which this grand order is encountering will uitiand a Kinght of Labor, I have no hesitation in asserting the belief that the hostile opposition which this grand order is encountering will nitimately prove that it is only through the instrumentality of the Knights of Labor that the social elevation of the working man can be effected, and there is no better proof of the effected, and there is no better proof of the effectery of the order than exists in the fact that it encounters the most obstinate opposition. If it possessed no merit its course would be smooth and uninterrupted.

THE FLINT CONVENTION.

An Exclusive Report from the Dispute Correspondent at Bellaire-Smith and Difton all Right. THE DISPATCH correspondent at Bellaire who has been furnishing exclusive news of the Flint Glass Convention, sends the following The wages agreed upon in the conference to gov-cratt:

The wages agreed upon in the conference to govern the engraving branch for the coming year has been ratified by the convention. The following amendment was instated on in the convention:

"All foreigners applying for admission to the Union shall be admitted on in the convention:

"All foreigners applying for admission to the Union shall be admitted on the payment of giso provided it is the intention to become citizens of of the United States when eligible."

The apprentice law has been modified in the mold-making branch to allow one additional apprentice in shops employing eight or more mold-makers. The list of moves and wages submitted by the manufacturers on paste mold tumblers has been rejected and last year's list adopted. The amendment to reduce the salary of the officers was defeated.

The proposition to abolish the national conventions and submit all questions to a vote of the trade, and elect the officers by a popular vote instead of by the representatives in convention, was also defeated.

A death fund has been established, so that upon the death of any member in good standing the nearest of his kin will receive $50, the money to be paid out of the national treasure, President Smith and Secretary Dillion will be re-elected.

The Associated Press sends the following general resume of the work of the convention:

The Fliat Glass Workers' Convention got down to business in good shaps to day and the report of the Engravers' Committee reported unanimously in favor of the recommendation published Wednesday, and their report was also confirmed. The other committees will report to-night and lo-morrow, having about conclusied their moves and lists, and, as a whole, there will be no material changes from the scale now in force. The opposition to President Smith will not material changes from the scale now in force. The opposition to President Smith will not material changes from the scale now in force. A LIVELY SESSION

Of the Window Ginss Workers' Associa tion Held Yesterday. rday's session of the Window Glass Workers' Convention was a very lively one.
There was a breezy discussion on the manner in which the affairs of the organization have been conducted. Some of the members are dissatisfied, while others are pleased over the manner in which the affairs have been handled by the officials of the organization. Several of the committees reported, and their reports were acted upon. The Commit-tee on Finance recommended that the bonds of the President and Secretary be increased from $1,500 to $5,000 each, as they handle a great deal of money.

The meeting, as usual, was a secret one, and the cause of the fight that is alleged to have occurred was not given, the delegates saying that no trouble of any kind took place. The business of the convention will not be completed until late next week.

A REMARKABLE LEGACY.

The Bible of a Johnstown Family Floats Down the River-It Accidentally Falls Into a Daughter's Hands.

Three young men strolling along the river bank in Millvale borough the other evening, saw lying in the sand a Bible, all tattered and torn. One gave the book a kick the second man did the same thing, but the third reproved his companions for such a lack of respect toward the Bible, at the same time picking it up, meaning to preserve it as a relic. After he had examined it he found it was a family Bible with a complete record of the family history of a Mrs. Catherine Davis, of Johnstown, Pa.

That evening while he was speaking about the finding of the Bible to a friend, the question was asked what name the Bible contains, and to the inquirer's utter amazement he found the Bible to belong to his wife's mother who was drowned in the flood. This gentleman was Mr. John Wood, of Lawrenceville, His wife is a daughter of the late Mrs. Davis, of Johnstown, and the Bible had floated down the river from the wrecked city. On the same evening Mrs. Wood identified the book and it was received by her as a legacy from her dead man did the same thing, but the third reproved was received by her as a legacy from her dead mother, come to her in a most providential way. The Bible can be seen by anyone at their home on Forty-fourth street.

So the Firemen Could Be There. During the funeral of Chief Crow in Alls-gheny yesterday, the places of the firemen were filled by policemen. At the Hope engine house the citizens of the ward volunteered their serv-ices, and were on hand for duty, but fortunate-ly no afarms were sent in.
